During my recent interview with artist Michael Birawer, he noted, "The term 'art world' is more vast than it ever was, and continues to expand like the universe."

True, and like most complex entities, the art world is comprised of millions of artists. Over the past six months, we've explored the studios and price ranges of sixty creatives from across the globe. Today, we will join fourteen more, with stops along the way in Los Angeles, Addis Ababa, Jackson, Des Moines and more.
